XARACTS. L BATTLE FLAG AT SHENANDOAH The tented field were a wrinkled frown, And the emptied church from the hill looked down On the emptied road and the emptied town. That Summer Sunday morning.

And here was the blue, and there was the gray; And a wide green valley rolled away Between where the battling armies lay, That shored Sunday morning.

Young Custer sat, with impatient will, - His restless steed, 'mid his troopers still, As he watched with glass from the oak-set hill That silent Sunday morning. Then fast he begun to chafe and fret:

"There's a battle fing on a bayonet Too close to my own true soldiers set For peace this Sunday morning! "Rido over, some one," he haughtily said," "And bring it to me! Why, in hars blood red And in stors I will stain it, and overhead,

Will flaunt it this Sunday morning!" Then a West-born lad, pale-faced and slim, Rode out, and touching his cap to him, Swept down, as swift as the swallows swim That anxious Sunday morning.

Oh! never rode man in the world so well From hill of heaven to valley of hell; And formen and friends, as in a spell, Stood still that Sunday morning.

On, through the valley! up, up, anywhere! That pale-faced lad like a bird through the air Kept on till he climbed to the banner there, That bravest Sunday morning! And he cought up the flag, and around his waist

He wound it tight and he fled in haste, 3 And swift his perilous route retraced That during Sunday morning. All honour and praise to the trusty stood! Ah, boy and banner, and all God speed! God's pity for you in your hour of need.

This deadly Sunday morning. Oh, deadly shot! and oh, shower of lead! Oh, iron rain on the brave, bare head! Why, even the leaves from the trees fall dead This drendful Sunday morning!

But he gains the oaks! Men cheer in their might! Brave Custer is weeping in his delight! Why, he is embracing the boy outright This glorious Sanday morning ! But, soft! Not a word has the pale boy said; He unwinds the flag. It is starred, striped, red With his heart's best blood, and he falls down dead.

In God's still Sunday morning! So, wrap his flag to his soldier's breast; Into Stars and Stripes it is stained and blost; And under the oaks let him rest, and rest In God's own Sunday morning ! JOAQUIN MILLER.
